ASS WAS THROWN AT WOMAN'S FACE OUTSIDE BRIDGEND PUB

Three-years jail sentence for 'lawless' Sarn man on impact after it was tĥrown at a woman's face during an incioutside dent Bridgend pub.

Amber Knight (18) had a crescent-shaped cut below her right eve. Her attacker, 22-year-old Ian Bartlett, who was branded a "thug and a coward" by Judge Stephen Hopkins, was jailed for three years at Cardiff Crown Court.

Courageously, said the judge, the victim had said recorded the incident on her mobile phone.

Bartlett, unemployed, of Ffordd Priordy, Sarn, Bridgend, had been Prosecutor Jeff Jones said the incident occurred about 11.20pm on November 4 outside the Coity Castle pub, Bridgend.

Bartlett had contacted friend who arrived at the scene and confronted Amber Knight's brother, Craig Knight.

The judge said at the time, Bartlett was on bail for an assault, which indicated his "lawless-including actual bodily harm on a council work-er in Bridgend, and a homophobic attack on a man in Cardiff.

He pointed out that the November 4 attack was not initiated by Bartlett. He said that Bartlett had tried to speak to Mr Knight and become friendly with him, but Mr Knight didn't want to know.

Mr Knight became concerned and texted his sister, who joined him outside the pub.
"But trouble broke out," said the judge, and Bartlett tried to snatch Miss Knight's phone from her.

He then deliberately threw a glass at her, which hit her in the face and smashed on impact.

"It is little short of a miracle that the cosmetic damage was not worse. or that she did not suffer an eve injury.

On the film, said the judge, after the attack, Bartlett was "bouncing and whooping around with delight in a trilowing a police chase and denied throwing the

Said the judge: "The jury saw through all your lies. You used a weapon, hurling a glass, and you intended to cause more harm than what occurred.

"You were on bail for another offence and you were under the influence of drink. You have a propensity to act violently when under the influence of drink."

Bartlett's counsel. Hilary Roberts, said references spoke well of the defendant and the writers were surprised at his predicament.

"He is pleasant and hard-working, but after drinking there is another side to him. Drink presents a problem and he says that he behaves like an idiot when drunk.

"He now recognises that drink is something he will have to address in the future. The injury itself was, in effect, a black eye with a splitting of the skin.

"Bartlett is not a hopeless case," said Mr Roberts.

Bridgend girl will sing anthem in Melbourne!

ABOVE: Meinir Ann Thomas will sing the Welsh national anthem in Melbourne this Saturday.

A BRIDGEND girl will be stepping out alongside the Welsh rugby team on Saturday morning (June 16) to sing the national anthem.

Meinir Ann Thomas, who now lives in Melbourne with her Australian husband and two young daughters, will be watched by her proud parents, Carys and Clem, back home in Bridgend. Meinir's singing career has taken her around the world, and she is a former member of the Swingle Singers.

Her mother told The GEM that her vocal talent first became apparent when she was at school in Ysgol Gymraeg Penybont. She said: "Meinir had an excellent grounding in singing there, and won prizes at the Urdd by PHILIP ĭRWIN

Eisteddfod."

She continued to develop her singing at secondary school in Ysgol Gyfun Llanhari, and she then went on to Liverpool University.

She graduated in music and sport - not a bad mix with her engagement on Saturday in mind!

Carvs said: "She joined the Swingle Singers and travelled the world with them, before settling down in Australia.

"Her married name is Tuckey, and now she juggles her two little girls and her home life with Andrew and work-ing as a free-lance vocal-

Hospital replies to A&E 'rumours'

A spokeswoman for the Princess Wales Hospital has responded to speculation that the A&E unit there could be downgraded.

As The GEM went to press, we were contacted by a member of the public, and by the Welsh Conservative regional AM for south Wales west, Suzy Davies.

She stated that there were "rumours" among hospital staff that it might be downgraded. She said she would be writing to Paul Roberts, the chief executive of the Abertawe Morgannwg University Health Board.

In a response received as The GEM was going to press vesterday, a hospital spokeswoman said: "We are reviewing how we provide all our servicin response to the elsh Government's Welsh vision for NHS Wales 'Together for Health'.

"In addition, six health boards are jointly looking at some particularly fragile services through the south Wales programme – this includes emergency medicine services across the whole of south Wales.

"No decisions have been made about these

COUNTY BOROUGH PUPILS MARK ROYAL OCCASION IN STYLE

Local schools sparkle for Queen's Diamond Jubilee!

Oldcastle Primary buried a time capsule during their Jubilee celebra-tions, watched by Carwyn Jones AM, to coincide with their centenary.

PRIMARY schools across the borough had a red, white and blue end to the term with dozens of yard parties and special celebrations to mark the Queen's Diamond

Jubilee.There were double celebrations for two of the oldest and youngest schools in the borough.

OLDCASTLE

PRIMARY used its Jubilee events to help mark its centenary, while MAES YR HAUL combined the celebration with the opening of a Jubilee garden marking its 10th birthday.

At Oldcastle, First Minister and Bridgend AM Carwyn Jones was among the guests invit-ed to a special assembly where children dressed up and performed a presentation inspired by their favourite era.

Mr Jones then helped pupils bury a time cap-sule marking 100 years.

Acting headteacher Sue Prosser said:

'This was a very

school. The children have enjoyed finding out about what life was like for Oldcastle pupils in the past and they were really keen to leave a snapshot of life today for the next generation.

"The children planned the contents of the capsule, which included video diaries of a typical day, class photographs, coins and notes, school uniform, a property news and letters sending messages to the future.

The children continued the celebrations with a Jubilee lunch served in the school yard in a typical street party style, followed by an afternoon of enter-

Parents were invited to view the children's exhibition, showing research and photos from the past, and Welsh rugby coach Rob Howley also brought along the Triple Crown and Grand Slam trophies for pictures.

Down the road in Maes yr Haul, the borough's largest primary marked its 10th birthday, and the Queen's 60 years on the throne with the opening of a new 'Iubilee Garden' in the school's grounds.

The garden has been designed by staff and pupils and created by the Youth Works pro-gramme as part of the 'Skills for Living' project.

Every year group in the school has a raised planting bed, featuring a range of flowers, veg-etables, fruits and herbs.

Other features of the garden include a sensory garden, a wild mead-ow section and pond, as well as a storytelling circle and terrace.

The opening was fol-lowed by a street party-style picnic in the playground and then children enjoyed traditional vard games dressed as their favourite Royals or in red white and blue.

There was an additional treat for the youngsters when the South Wales Police helicopter paid a special overhead visit. Headteacher

Jubilee celebrations. "All learning has been linked to the reign of Queen Elizabeth, with a wide range of diverse and original activities and, of course, the opening of our fan-tastic new Jubilee garden.

In Brackla,
ARCHDEACON JOHN LEWIS PRIMARY SCHOOL, PRIMARY SCHOOL, pupils dressed up for a street party lunch, while BRACKLA PRIMARY held a garden party where children were asked to dress up and design a cake and sendurion to cake and sandwich to celebrate the Jubilee. Children who are part of the school's 'bike it to school' initiative were also invited to decorate their bikes.

In Bridgend, pupils at HERONSBRIDGE SPECIAL SCHOOL held a Jubilee garden tea party, while BRYNCETHIN PRIMARY pupils cele-brated with their very own 'Kings and Queens' tea party, with all of the staff and children coming to school dressed as their favourite Royal.

In BRYNTIRION, INFANTS, staff and children dressed in red, white and blue for their Jubilee disco, and also planted a time capsule near their Jubilee tree.
LLANGEWYDD

JUNIOR SCHOOL will be holding a com-munity Diamond Jubilee summer fayre on Friday June 15; with Royal food, games, sponge throwing and Queen and Prince Phillip lookalikes.

In CEFN GLAS INFANTS, the street party included a danceathon, bunting and decorating cakes. The pupils who designed the school's winning com-memorative stamp were Oueen and Prince Consort' for the party. Each pupil took home a commemorative mug, decorated with the Jubilee and school logos.

In Coity, a Jubilee party took place at COETY PRIMARY where Coity Village Association presented every child at school with a commemorative mug.

Cornelly celebrations included those at YSGOL Y FERCH O'R SGÊR, where a Jubilee parade of princes and princesses, mug decorating, face painting, a bouncy cas-tle, street dancing work-shops and a barbecue were on offer, while at Coychurch, the community council presented pupils of COYCHURCH PRIMARY with Diamond Jubilee commemorative medals

In Laleston, a whole school party took place at TRELALES PRIMARY where pupils had fun dressed in red, white and blue, while in LITCHARD party saw pupils also dress in red, white and blue and wear celebra-

nantyffyllon PRIMARY pupils had fun at a street party in the schoolyard where teachers and pupils wore red, white and blue and had their faces painted.

In Maesteg, YSGOL CYNWYD SANT pupils were each given a commemorative mug to mark the event. In Porthcawl, WEST celebrations, lawn games, party games, a picnic and a parade took place, while nearby NEWTONPRIMARY pupils held a Jubilee picnic in the schoolyard dressed in a variety of costumes including kings, queens, princes and princesses and red, white and blue.
PARK PRIMARY's

Their school fete also had a Jubilee theme.

Rhian Edwards

THE May 24 issue of The GEM featured a piece about Rhian Edwards, the winner of the winner of the 2011/2012 John Tripp award for spoken poetry.

In the piece, it was reported that Rhian, who has just published her first book of poetry, had studied law London School of Economics, but had not graduated.
The GEM would like

Parkinson's group meets in Porthcawl miles from Newcastle

AT the last monthly meeting of the Porthcawl Parkinson's Support Group, members enjoyed a very pleasant morning listening to the speaker Mr Glan Davies.

Glan talked about how, in the early 1930s as a young boy, he spent his time on his father's farm, a small-holding six

He spoke of hard times, where there was no running water, no sewerage and no elec-tricity, and how one of the greatest assets was a stream that ran alongside the farm.

Glan told of how the war actually improved a lot of things at the farm.

He then continued his talk about his time in national service and how after that he was trained to teach deaf people, and of how his job took him to Leeds.

The next monthly meeting is on June 29 at 10.30am in the Unitarian Church schoolroom in Nottage.

All new comers are welcome.

Bridgend students make 'river of coins' PUPILS from a St Mary's raised £517

Bridgend school have made a river out of coins to show their support for people around the world who are living without access to clean water.

The 'river of change' flowed around St Mary's Primary School hall, with pupils donating pocket money to raise money for the Catholic aid agency, CAFOD's 'Give it Up' Lenten appeal.

The headteacher, Mr

Lyndon Watkins, said: We had a visit from CAFOD diocesan manager, Richard Laydon, at the beginning of Lent, and he explained to the children that one in eight people live without clean water.

The children took a natural interest in the appeal and were keen to raise money, having realised just how lucky they are.

for 'Give it Up' and the fundraising will have double the impact, as the Government has promised to match any donations made to CAFOD over Lent thanks to UK Aid Match Funding. CAFOD's manager for Bridgend, Richard Laydon, said: "It's amazing that these children have put so much time and energy into thinking about others and changing lives.

HIGH TIDE TIMES

(UNTIL JUNE 21)
The high tides listed in this week's GEM are those in Porthcawl. It should be remembered that along the coast, high tide times will vary. For instance, in Barry, the high point will be 20 - 25 minutes later.

MAESTEG AIMS HIGH WITH ITS QUEEN'S JUBILEE BEACON ON CHURCH'S SPIRE

MAESTEG'S contribution to the lighting of beacons to celebrate the Queen's Diamond Jubilee was one of the most visible anywhere in the UK!

While some communities built theirs on the coast, or on a nearly hill, in Maesteg the beacon was lit at the very top of St Michael's Church.

Before the lighting of the beacon, the church hosted a Jubilee concert, organised by Anthony Bwye, and a thanksgiving service, taken by the Rev G Blyth.

Year-6 class pupils wow book judges

EIGHT young hopefuls from the year-6 class of St David's Church in Wales Primary School, Colwinston, went to Brecon for the national final of the Welsh Books Council competition.

A scool spokeswoman said: "The group took the judging panel by storm with their drama presentation and book discussion.

"Their Welsh-themed book discussion was particularly commended. The judges described the quality of the children's answers as outstanding and near perfect!"

The first round of the competition was at St Illtyd's Primary School, Llantwit Major, where St David's joined four other schools in competing for the chance to go through to the final.

Teacher Mrs Janis Ellis, said: "The group are a joy to work with. This is our third year of entering the competition and the last opportunity the children will have before high school, so to get to get this far is particularly special.

"Three of the pupils wrote and choreo-graphed the drama presentation, something I think the judges looked favourably upon.

Townswomen host visitors from Mansfield

PORTHCAWL Townswomen's Guild welcomed seven members from its twin guild, Mansfield Lady Oaks, to celebrate 'TG Together Day' over a long weekend of glorious sunshine, going to St Fagan's to view some of the interesting buildings and on to Cardiff Bay.

After seeing the Wales Millennium Centre and the Senedd, it was time for a trip around the bay.

In the evening, there was a Welsh choir for visitors to enjoy, as 'Sounds Familiar' held their annual concert in All Saints Church.

Sunday lunch was enjoyed by 25 members, followed by a short tour round The Rest and over to Southerndown, showing off our beautiful coastline.

Our Mansfield friends were very appreciative and we felt we had shown this area of Wales off at its very best. DT

Looking back on great week of Jubilee events

Festivities a real treat for the residents of Porthcawl

AS the Queen's Diamond Jubilee week has come to a close ,it is an oppor-tunity to reflect on a momentous few days of frivolity and fun when young and old, and people of all races have joined together to celebrate a truly fantastic occasion, the like of which may never be seen

Nationally, the incredibly spectacular River pageant, despite the weather, will remain as a lasting memory of the Jubilee celebrations. To see the banks of the Thames packed with cheering fans and to see the royal barge with the Queen standing for hours to receive the tributes was truly inspir-This was followed by the Buckingham Palace concert and the moving service of celebration at St Paul's Cathedral.

Porthcawl can be equally proud of the exceptional programme of events compiled and delivered by Lindsay Morgan and his Diamond Jubilee committee. The town of Porthcawl owes them a great debt of gratitude for the months of planning and personal sacrifices necessary to com-pile and fulfil such an exceptional array of activity.

The fact that some events were not as well attended as others should in no way detract from variety of opportunity to celebrate that was on offer, free of charge, for the people of Porthcawl during this memorable week.

Not deterred by the weather, the Jubilee committee still delivered all that was promised from the activities at the Rugby Field to the 'Party on the Prom' concluding with the service of thanks and celebration at the Grand Pavilion.

Amongst the notable successes of this incredible, unforgettable week must be the presentation of over 3,000 medals to our Porthcawl schoolchildren that has provided them with a tangible reminder of this exceptional occasion closely followed by the provision of 370 high quality celebration lunches free of any charge, and dis-tributed through Churches Together in Porthcawl.

Also the visits paid to each venue by Lord and Lady Kenfig, Lindsay and Margaret Morgan that provided additional atmosphere.

The lighting of the official beacons brought out thousands to watch. The pleasure of seeing the community spirit engendered at the various venues around our town was also a joy to behold.

While the weather has become a dominant feature, it still failed to deter those who attended the 'Party on the Prom.' The open top bus was full all day, as it transported its windswept passengers from Coney Beach to Rest Bay and back. while the small road train also traversed the prom all day with excit-ed young and old on board. The public who made the effort to attend were pleasantly surprised to enjoy free lunches provided from a tent opposite the Pavilion.

Rotary friends should be thanked for providing help and for their marshalling services throughout

Again, the weather did not stop the 'Waterless' Pool Gala from taking place, the Punch and Judy show and the excellent 'Living Statues' took refuge in the fover of the Grand Pavilion.

The Hi Tide fireworks display also con-tinued to round off a damp but enjoyable day. The successful Big Sound Band Dance in memory of Harry Dannell that featured two members of the original Band was enjoyed by all and the Lifeguard Nipper Carnival and Small Boat flotilla complemented by our special lifeboat crews was well supported.

Sandy Bay events concluded with the Grand Jubilee fireworks display - Wow! What a great show; truly the big bang we were expect-

All those who participated in this great week, will long remember the 2012 Diamond Jubilee events programme and the attention it brought to the Town.

The culmination of all the activities was the memorable special thanksgiving celebration service in the Grand Pavilion, when our young people lit candles of remembrance and when our civic pride was demonstrated with Banners raised and medals worn.
Well done again to Lindsay Morgan and his Jubilee committee, and all those who helped to make this memorable week possible. Finally, look out for

'A Celebration of the Queen's Jubilee' book on sale soon, compiled and edited by Keith E Morgan, published by the Diamond Jubilee Events Group, sponsored by Margaret and Lindsay Morgan and printed by Harris Printers.

Produced to be a comprehensive photograph album that records the events and changes that have taken place in Porthcawl since Her Majesty the Queen's Accession to the Throne on the death of her father, King George VIth on February 6, 1952, this commemorative book covers the life and times of the town of Portheawl its community, and its people over the 60 years of the Queen's reign.

FIVE students were selected to attend the Hay Festival, as part of the Beacons Project.

They won five out of 13 places available to A-level literature stu-

It involved spending a week at the festival taking part in cre-ative- writing workshops and attending a wide range of events.

The Cardiff and Vale College students were: Jac Bryant (17) from Barry; Conor Derbyshire (17) from Llanedeyrn; Alex E Jackson (17) from Radyr; Thomas Clements (18) from Llandaff; and Liam Hemmings (19) from Penarth.

They, took part in events aimed at encouraging their creativity and linking the landscape and environment of the Beacons to art and literature.

Liam (19) said: "It meant a lot to be selected for The Beacons Project, as I have been writing poetry for a few years now and it's nice to get recognised.

"It took me seven hours of non-stop typing to get the collection of poems finished, so it shows my hard work has paid off.'

Activities included guided walks in the National Park, creative writing workshops with published writers and meeting iournalists, as well as attending many talks and performances over the course of the week.

Top poet will be at the library

A POETRY reading, book signing and question and answer session with Bridgend-born poet and musician Rhian Edwards was taking place at Bridgend Library today (June 14).

Rhian is a talented performance artist who has inspired audiences throughout the UK and abroad and has recently won the John Tripp Award for Spoken Poetry (2011-2012), which is the highest award for a perform-ance poet in Wales.

THE LORD PROVIDED...

PEARL welcomed two new members to the recent Newton WI meeting.

The Jubilee meal went really well and the hall was beautifully decorated by Pat and family. A three-course meal vas given by Lord Kenfig, Lindsay Morgan, and his wife Margaret.

We all toasted the Queen and sang the National Anthem and then had a raffle, drawn by Lindsay, and the afternoon ended with a quiz. Pearl thanked Lord Kenfig for the wonderful meal and all the effort for the Jubilee weekend.

Our next meeting is the strawberry tea, which Jan has under control, although I don't know if Jan and Den are picking the strawber-ries! The speaker was Phillip Davies, who spoke about a funny thing that happened to him on the way to the theatre. Mr Davies really knew his stuff and had an amazing repertoire of anecdotes from his own performances in 'Am Dram' and kept us all laughing.

'ADOPT WITH CONFIDENCE'

CATS Protection's Bridgend Adoption Centre has introduced an 'adopt with confidence' pledge so that prospective owners can be confident that any cat adopted from the charity has benefited from the highest standards of care.

This comes at a time when more pets than ever are being given up due to the economic climate, which puts a massive strain on the centre.

Some owners who have lost their jobs simply can't afford to keep their cats or have had to move into rented accommodation where pets are not allowed, so the charity has found itself dealing with more unwanted cats than ever A spokesperson said:

70th anniversary of US troops celebrated this weekend in Barry

THE Americans are coming - and you can join them at the Wartime Weekend on Barry Waterfront and Barry Island Station this weekend, Saturday and Sunday, June 16-

The events run from 10am-5pm on Saturday and 10am-4pm on Sunday.

Barry at War Group, in partnership with Barry Tourist Railway, St Cyres School and the Vale Council, have enabled the 'Wartime Weekend' living history and commemorative event in Barry to be staged.

The event commemorates the 70th anniversary of US troops coming to the town as part of the build up for the liberation of Europe.

It features an Allied encampment at Hood Road, with Barry Island Railway Station being transformed into a civilian home front living history area, complete with appropriate themed stalls and entertainment.

The weekend promises to provide the public with a fascinating glimpse of our 1940s

Local historian and St Cyres headteacher, Dr Jonathan Hicks, told The GEM: "Scores of Allied military re-enac-tors will be setting up an authentic WWII American camp and staging displays. "Barry Island Station will be transformed into a 1940s station, complete with wartime police and the Home Guard, to portray the Barry Home Front. "A wartime housewife will teach people how to 'make do and mend', a skill so essen-tial during wartime."

Other educational living history displays will be housed at the station. along with an exhibition on the area during the Second World War.

Dr Hicks explained: Barry Tourist Railway is providing steam train rides from the Waterfront Halt at Hood Road in Barry to Barry Island Station.

"Barry Docks was a major supply port in the build up to D-Day. There will be 1940sstyle live entertainment and a live radio broadcast.

"The children from seven local primary schools in Barry and Penarth are to play the role of wartime evac uees. Dressed in 1940s costumes, they will board a steam train from Barry Waterfront and be 'evacuated' to Barry Island Station where they will be given refreshments and view the various events due to take place on Barry Island Station before being transported back to their parents."

Ade Pitman of the Barry at War Group said: "We felt as a group that it was time to recall the service of these brave men and women who came across the Atlantic to help us in our fight against Nazi Germany.

"Many of them did not survive the war to return to the country of their birth. They had a huge impact on the people of the area and its economy.

"We intend to have a
WW2 American military convoy pass through the area on the Friday after-noon which would be an amazing sight after 70 vears.

THE BARRY BLITZ AIR RAIDS OF WWII

RIGHT: There will be re-enactments of how German Luftwaffe bombs were diffused given by the 25th Bomb Disposal Company of the Royal Engineers (a WWII re-enactment group from Hampshire).

7HILE it was the servicemen and women from Barry who served during the Second World War who were in the front line in the campaigns against the Axis forces, the civilians who were left in Barry, also faced their own dangers from the enemy - in this instance, the German Luftwaffe.

With air raids imminent, advice was given to Barry residents in May 1940 regarding the types of shelter available: "Steel Garden Shelters will not give full protection without adequate earth cover-ing, which should be at least 15 inches thick on top and 30 inches thick at the sides.

and 30 inches thick at the sides.
"An earth mound not less than 30 inches thick (or boxes filled with earth) should protect the entrance to a shelter against blast and splinters. This is not necessary if the shelter is facing and

This is not necessary if the shelter is facing and within 15ft of a substantial wall.
"Public shelters are primarily intended for people caught in the streets in an air raid. People in houses should stay there."

By the following month, it was becoming clear that the number of public shelters – 13 – was inade quate, and this was to be increased to 21.

Among the ideas proposed was the building of eight new shelters at the bottom of Vere Street, in between George and Digby Streets, one near the Air Raid Precaution control centre on the allotments near the abattories, one at the junction of Cemetery and Barry Roads, one at the top of Tynewydd Hill, one on Great Western Railway land opposite Trinity Street, one in Alexandra Gardens, one of the Castle Farm buildings Garden Suburb, and one on the corner of the Parade Gardens.

In total, 390 brick shelters were to be delivered to Barry for erection in parts of the town where it was impossible to dig deep enough to erect Anderson shelters.

The call went out as well for men over the age of 45 and 'active women' to be trained as fire-fighters in the use of stirrup hand pumps, in order to protect local houses against incendiary bombs.

The 25th Bomb Disposal Company of the Royal Engineers, a WWII re-enactment group based in Hampshire, will be providing set-piece scenarios and demonstrations to show visitors how the German Luftwaffe bombs were defused

Memorial plaque is to be unveiled

AT 11am, tomorrow, Friday, June 15, the forthcoming 'Wartime Weekend' on Barry Waterfront will get off to a memorable start when a marble plaque dedicated to the American troops who were stationed in and around Barry during the Second World War will be unveiled on King Square.

Dr Jonathan Hicks, who has led the project, said: "We are very grateful to the Vale Council for granting permission for this plaque to be placed and to AG Adams and Son for sponsoring and producing it.

"Without their assistance, this unique event would not be taking place.

"Thousands of GIs were stationed in Barry and its adjoining localities during World War II and we wanted to remember that fact with a permanent memorial.

"The plaque will be unveiled by the new county and town mayors during a ceremony carried out in the presence of representatives of the US Military."

Dr Hicks added: "It will be a lasting reminder to those young men and women who made such an impact on the local community. We should never forget that many of them were never to return to the country of their birth."

The Wartime Weekend will see scores of American and British re-enactors stage 'living history' with period uniforms and continues.

Come and meet the real Dad's Army -THE GLAMORĞAN HOME GUARD!

OSTED for the weekend at Barry Island Station, the re-enactors of the Glamorgan Home Guard will be demonstrating to the public the role of the real Dad's Army during World War Two.

The group was featured in the recent BBC series 'The Coal House at War', and was formed several years ago to honour the people who were prepared to give up so much during that dramatic period in our history.

The Home Guard (initially 'Local Defence

Volunteers', or LDV, or in humorous slang, Look, Duck, Vanish, hence the name change) was a defence organisation of the British Army during the Second World War.

Operational from 1940 until 1944, the Home Guard – comprising 1.5 million local volunteers otherwise ineligible for military service, usually owing to age, hence the nick-name 'Dad's Army' – acted as a secondary defence force in case of invasion by the forces of Nazi Germany and their allies.

The Home Guard manned the coastal areas of Britain and other important places such as airfields, factories and explosives stores. The biggest fear was not enemy bombing, but that saboteurs would infiltrate the site and plant explosives, which would have been catastrophic, both in terms of damage and loss of life, but also as a setback to the war effort.

They were responsible for duties such as guarding the Royal Ordnance Factory at Bridgend and Barry Pillboxes were each manned by either two or four Home Guards depending on the size and design. Each box had either a Corporal or a Sergeant in charge. It was common for a Sergeant to take responsibility for overseeing three boxes and a Corporal two boxes.

However, following the successful landings in France and the drive towards Germany by the Allies, the Home Guard were formally stood down on December 3, 1944 and finally disbanded on December 31, 1945.

Keeping the troops supplied

The 514th re-enactment group.

ARRY Docks was a major supply port for the invasion of Normandy and the 514th Q M Truck Regiment, a group of re-enactors based in southern England, will be attending the Wartime Weekend, bringing with them six GMC trucks, authentic survivors of the Second World War.

Lovingly restored to their former glory, these American trucks will give an even greater uthentic flavour to the event.

In the winter of 1943. the 514th were shipped to Camp Kilmer, New Jersey. This was a transfer station to the ETO (European Theatre of Operations), and a few days later they boarded ships in New York for the nine-day journey to Liverpool, England.

Britain was preparing for the invasion of France with more than a million American Gi's camped at bases throughout the country.
To maintain this massive fighting force more than five million long tons of supplies had been landed, and the men of the 514th imme diately went to work as they hauled material from depots to ports and vice versa

Many of the Companies of the 514th were based on the south Coast in Somerset and Dorset These were at Sandbanks, near Poole, Stoke-sub-Hamdon, Dorchester, Maiden Newton, Rimpton, Piddletrenthide Compton Valence, Westbury and Heytesbury.

The drivers spent a lot of time delivering supplies along the south coast to the units such as the famous 29th infantry, along with others, in preparation for D-Day.

In early July 1944 the truck Companies of the 514th started to make it across the English Channel and landed on Utah and Omaha beaches at night.

When the ramp went down on one landing craft at Utah, James Rookard's truck lurched forward across the deck and into the water. No headlights were permit-ted and soon the bumper of Rookard's truck disappeared into the channel and seawater rose over the running boards and into the cab.

It seemed like miles to the beach and he knew that if the truck stalled he would have to swim to shore and he had no idea how far that was, and who or what was out there. Dark images of American troops moving about on the beach suddenly appeared. He was star-tled by sudden flashes lighting the horizon.

The bursts of light came from American and German artillery that fired at each other. and Rookard knew that the front was not far away. The drivers were frightened and with good reason, for the loads they were carry ing contained ammuni tion and jerry cans filled with gasoline.

The trucks were motorised bombs waiting for a spark and in some places the front was only five miles away. On July 18, 1944, the 3rd Army set up a transport depot at Bricquebec entitled the 514th Quartermaster Group. One month later, the trucks would start the gigantic supply train known as the Red Ball Express

As previously reported in The GEM, the Vale Council has donated this year's Eisteddfod Crown, and at a recent ceremony it was officially handed over to the chair of the Vale Eisteddfod executive committee, Dylan Jones, by the Mayor of the Vale, Coun Eric Hacker. The crown was designed and created by a local artist, Anne Morgan of Penarth.

Welsh country fair

SET in the picturesque grounds of Fonmon Castle, on June 30 and July 1, the Welsh Summer Country Fair and Food Festival will be celebrating in style, with award winning food, real ales, cider and fine wines - as well as a fine selection of hand-crafted unique jewellery, accessories and fashion.

With more than 80 stands allocated two of the newest contributors are Hannah Alyward, from The Old Wool Barn, Verity's Court, Cowbridge, with her brand new business Deliberately Scrumptious.

Llantwit Major-based company Wink, is owned by artist Lea Reynolds, who upcycles and specialises in all things vintage – including sock monkeys - made using the Original Rockford Red Heel Socks. (Sock monkeys date back to the late 1800s, when children's toys were fashioned from long-lasting Rockford work socks)

The elegant castle rooms will be open for cream teas, as will the gardens for a leisurely stroll, and there will be food talks, wine tastings and demonstrations, a champagne marquee and live music.

Idyllic retreats are waiting to be discovered by public

IMAGES by MIKE WILCOCK of Stallcourt Mews, Cowbridge

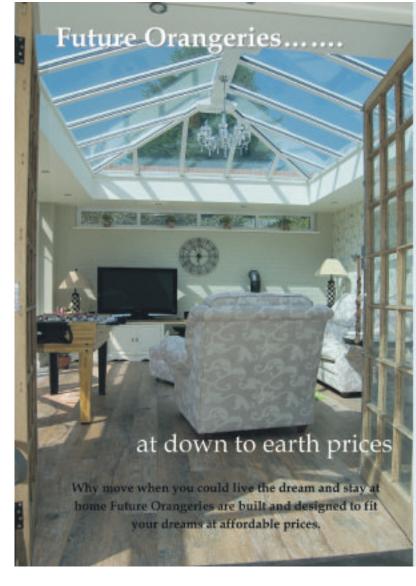

THE National Gardens Scheme is celebrating its 85th anniversary, with over 3,800 gardens across England and Wales opening up to the public in return for a small fee to be donated to charity.

In the past 10 years alone, the scheme has donated £22 million to nursing, caring and gardening observities dening charities.

More than 80 gardens will be opened up across Glamorgan and, as these photographs by GEM photographer Mike Wilcock show, plenty of idyllic retreats are waiting to be discovered.

Transform the outside of your house and make it attractive for years to come

F your home has a painted exterior, it won't stay looking good forever because, inevitably, the elements take their toll on its appearance.

The easiest way to give it a new look is to paint it a different colour – make sure you use a high-quality masonry paint, such as those by Dulux or Sandtex – but even if you're happy with the existing colour, repainting it can work won-

Discoloured, peeling and patchy paint isn't pretty or practical and could lead to damage that's expensive to repair.

While you can rarely be as adventurous with the colours you use on the outside of your home as the inside, you don't have to restrict yourself to just white, cream or magnolia.

However, you do need to consider what will go with your neighbours' houses, if there any restrictions imposed by your local council on the colours you can use and what suits the style and period of the building.

For some homes, though, a lick of paint won't go far enough - only a radical makeover will do. Sadly, the latter decades of the 20th century weren't our finest in terms of architecture, and some homes from the 1950s onwards leave a lot to be desired in terms of beauty.

If your home is among those that aesthetics forgot, an architect or specialist company will be able to help you transform the exterior.

They should come up with a solution tailored to your home (detached houses are the best candidates because you don't have an adjoining reminder of the old look), but one idea that works well is rendering and/or cladding (with wood or faux-wood panelling) all or some of the exterior.

This can make a massive difference, as can things like replacing the windows and doors, adding balconies and extensions, and retiling the

Adding dormer windows and replacing unat-tractive concrete roof tiles with slate ones can go a long way to giving your home character and kerb appeal. FRONT DOOR

In fact, exteriors can be transformed beyond recognition and while this type of work often isn't cheap, it will certainly add value and make your home more attractive and sellable.

Research by Sandtex found that homebuyers are impressed by smart-ly painted walls and a well-kept front door.

Before you start changing the exterior, check with your local council whether planning permission is required and whether building regulations apply.

The area in which you live, as well as the type of building (listed buildings often cannot be altered without listed building consent from the council) can affect your plans for 'designated land', which includes conservation areas, so you may not be able to do what you want with your home's exterior – the council will be able to tell you.

Occasionally, you may need a party wall agree ment with your neighbours for exterior work, if it involves a shared boundary.

And if your home is leasehold, you'll probably need the permission of the freeholder, even if ou're only changing the appearance of your part of the building

HIGH QUALITY

The problem with altering the outside of your home, especially the front, is that any changes you make will be obvious for all to see, so don't do anything you shouldn't because you could get have to worry about redoing the job any time soon. It should be dirt resistant, breathable, flexible and waterproof.

When painting the outside of your home, start at the top and work down, painting in sections from left to right or right to left.

Try to ensure that you always have a 'wet edge' to your paintwork, so you don't end up with stripes or blocks where the paint has dried

Follow the sun, as this will ensure that the walls are free from dew, and don't paint in direct sunlight on hot days because this can lead to blistering when the paint dries.

EISTEDDFOD PLAN TO KEEP TRAFFIC MOVING!

WITH little less than two months to go before the Vale Glamorgan National Eisteddfod, organisers have published details of the traffic management system for the week.

The aim of the scheme is tio strive to ensure that traffic runs as smoothly as possible during an exceptionally week, making it easy for visitors to reach the Eisteddfod and that local residents are disrupted as little as possi-ble as they travel around the area.

The Eisteddfod has worked with a number organisations agencies over the past few months, and the published scheme is a partnership between the Eisteddfod, South Wales Police and the Vale of Glamorgan Council.

Festival Technical Director, Alan Gwynant, says: "Our priority every year is to try and ensure that traffic runs as smoothly as possible throughout the week, and that the huge influx of visitors doesn't affect local people too much.

'Once again this year, we are encouraging everyone to follow the signs and to read the instructions on how to

"It is very important to follow the traffic system – even if you know the area. We have been working on the plan for many months and many months and believe that this is the best way to try and ensure that there are no major traffic issues dur-ing Eisteddfod week."

From the west, traffic will be diverted off the M4 via junction 35 (Pencoed), and then via Ewenny and the coast road, approaching the south car park, and turning left into the car park. This will serve traffic approaching from Swansea, Carmarthen, Aberystwyth etc. From the east, traffic will be diverted off the M4 via J32, A4232 to Culverhouse Cross, and then via Barry, St Athan Llantwit Major. Traffic will then enter the north car park via a left turn. This will serve traffic approaching from Cardiff, the Valleys and Pegg comedy is not quite Fantastic – but not half bad!

AVING used the likes of Shaun of the Dead to springboard himself to Hollywood, Simon Pegg has carved a successful niche in Tinseltown, lining up in the likes of Tintin and the latter two Mission:Impossible films, making the Brit a major play-

However, Pegg's latest film sees him return to Britain, and low budgets. In A Fantastic Fear of Everything, Pegg plays Jack, a writer whose research into serial killers for his latest book has made him a paranoid wreck

With Jack's life
seemingly falling away around him, will he be able to pull things together and turn his life around – or are his fears well founded?

A Fantastic Fear of Everything isn't the sort of mainstream fare that you would expect to see Simon Pegg popping up in. The film is a quirky little thing that doesn't lack ambition but does fall a little short of what it intends

Kula Shaker, the film is a particular blend of British comedy, darknight-of-the-soul horror and just plain bizarreness; easy to categorise it certainly isn't.

But Mills' screenplay has in it the nugget of a story concerning the projection of fears and how they impact upon the lives of those suffering, a noble one no doubt, but one that feels a little smothered beneath everything else that is going on.

Similarly, the film

Similarly, the film peaks too early, the last third in particular far too desperate to tie everything together into a satisfying whole, which Mills doesn't manage to pull off. It's as if the ideas lacked any definitive resolution, taking the story to a place where, tonally it feels right, but narratively feels forced.

His direction, along with Chris Hopewell, follows a similar tone to the likes of Paul King's Bunny and The Bull, the film following a off balanced colour scheme and set in a timeless period that draws influences from several decades.

The composition of the film is well done, giving the film a ragged beauty that sits well with the story, while small detours like a stop-motion tale of a hedgehog merely add to the slightly off kilter mood.

Anchoring it all is a

Anchoring it all is a pleasing performance from Simon Pegg, carrying the film pretty much solely on his shoulders and delivering a fine turn.

He has very little heavy lifting to do, even when the film gets dramatic, but offers a satisfying comedic touch, his reactions proving to be hugely amusing, while capturing the jerky paranoia of the character well.

Crispian Mills makes a fair debut as a writer and co-director, supported by Simon Pegg's comedic film-carrying turn, and shows that he has plenty of potential.

EMAILS are flying around the world; leaflets are being picked up from Swansea to Stroud; artists are rehearsing hard in Wales, England, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, Kazakhstan, Canada and the United States of America, and the festival site preparations are soon to start at St Donats Castle, Llantwit Major.

www.rptrafficmanagement.co.uk suppliers to Beyond the Border From June 29th – July 1st the beautiful site by the sea will play host to Beyond the Border, Wales International Storytelling Festival

In 2012 the festival is celebrating 200 years of the Brothers Grimm and their collection of fairy-tales. Families can see Grimm's Tales performed through circus and music, or as puppet shows (including some specially for the Under 7's) and they can also take part in storyteller Daniel Morden's exciting Festival project where he will perform a story right up to a cliff-hanger moment, then talk to the audience to decide how to perform the ending the next day. For adults and teenagers there are darker Grimm's tales to choose from including festival favourites The Company of Storytellers performing The Three Snake Leaves, a rather naughty late night Bluebeard, and a dark exploration of mental health issues in puppet theatre piece The Fantasist to name but a few.

David Ambrose - Artistic Director says . .

A visit to Beyond The Border is always a rich and magical experience, and this year promises to be better than ever. Not only are we delighted to be back at St Donats, with its fairy tale castle perched on the clifftop, enchanted gardens, wild woods and a prospect of the sea...but we also have a wonderful line-up, over 100 performances of music and stories from around the world, a magnificent feast for the ears!

Paul Seligman - Festival Fan says . . .

You know how it is. You keep hearing good things about a restaurant, a pub, a holiday destination or a new activity. You mean to check it out, but somehow you never get round to it. It's not part of your social pattern. Eventually you may give it a try and if it's as good as you heard, you think "Why didn't I do this before?" We came late to Beyond the Border, very late – it started in 1993 and it was about ten years later before we went for a day. It was as good as we'd been told, if not better, and of course we thought... "Why didn't we do this before?"

Another anniversary featured is the 100 years since the sinking of the Titanic. American storyteller Pam Faro tells the tale of her Great Uncle Olaus, steerage survivor of the ill-fated voyage, whilst you can also hear how a radio operator from South Wales heard the distress signal and test some of the equipment he would have used.

The festival celebrates the Welsh language too and has commissioned a new performance in Welsh and English and story and song based on Welsh legends: Tair: Daughters of Earth and Time Alongside all the storytelling, there are great musical performances. Featured UK artists this year include Transglobal Underground, She'Koyokh, Julie Murphy and Fernhill, plus you can plunge into central Asian culture with Music of the Persian Poets and Voices from the Kazakh Steppes.

With a real ale bar, craft stalls, food from Wales and the world, coastal walks and many other activities it is a weekend not to be missed – and if you can't make the whole weekend, you can buy tickets for just a day or an evening.

All the information is at:

www.beyondtheborder.com/fes tival/tickets or you can call the Box Office on 01446 799 100.

Tickets can be bought in advance or on the day from the Box Office on the festival campsite.

Kat Quatermass – Festival Manager says . . .

We're really excited to have arranged sign language interpretation for the first time ever at Beyond the Border. Local interpreters are signing a series of family friendly performances on Saturday 31st July. We've also got a special discount offer for families with Deaf children so they can try it out. They can get more information by calling 02921 660 501 or emailing info@beyondtheborder.com

'Help us fight off invasion by alien plant'

THE Wildlife Trust of south and west Wales needs help preventing an alien invader from threatening native plants at Parc Slip nature reserve near Bridgend.

Himalayan balsam is a highly invasive plant that was introduced to the UK in the early 19th Century and has begun to spread rapidly around the country.

It is commonly found along waterways and in damp woodland, with its tall fleshy stems and attractive pink flowers becoming a dominant feature in some areas, and costing conservation organisations, as well as councils, vast amounts of money to con-

However, what it may offer aesthetically is not enough to counter the many negative effects that come with it. It forms very dense colonies, shading out native vegetation and preventing it from grow-

When the plant dies in the autumn, it then leaves large areas of bare soil which are vulnerable to erosion. Himalayan balsam also attracts pollinators away from native plant species, thereby decreasing their reproductive success. The one good thing about Himalayan balsam is that it has very shallow roots and is therefore easy to pull up. And that is where we need you!

Thursday, June 28, we are holding a communal Himalayan balsam removal day in order to try to ontrol the spread of this virulent plant across our Parc Slip reserve near Aberkenfig.

If you'd like the chance to help make a real difference to a beautiful local nature reserve, carrying out hands-on conservation work while enjoying out hands-on conservation work while chipoping some (hopefully fine) fresh air, then please get in touch with Vaughn Matthews (v.matthews@welshwildlife.org or 01656 724100).

MP Huw and TV's Fiona team up to back carers in Bridgend

OGMORE MP Huw Irranca-Davies has teamed up with TV presenter and former carer Fiona Phillips to support this year's Carers' Week (June 18-24) in recognising the contribution made by the 18,000 people across Bridgend county borough who provide unpaid care for someone who is ill, frail or disabled.

The work they carry out is vital for their families and friends. and for their communities.

"Across Bridgend county borough there are 17,894 carers, saving the State an estimated £386 million a year in the unpaid care they provide. Across Wales, there are 369,628 carers, saving £7.72 billion a year," the MP said. The theme for Carers' Week 2012 is 'In sickness and in health' recognising the strain families are under as they see their services cut back. It calls for better financial and practical support for the diverse range of people who have caring responsibilities.

Research carried out by Carers UK in 2012 found that unpaid carers are at breaking point: 47 per cent of carers said they were made ill by money worries and 45 per cent said that caring had pushed them into debt.

Huw and Fiona have joined together to pay tribute to carers, and to urge that they receive more support. Huw said.

The MP went on: "Nearly 18,000 people across Bridgend county borough and six million across the UK sacrifice not only their time, but also their money and their health in order to care for a loved one.

Together they save this country an incredi-ble £119 billion every year – it's an incredible £386 million per year in Bridgend county alone. It's vital that carers are offered regular breaks from caring and health checks so that they can be supported.
"I am taking part in Carers' Week to show my respect and appreci-ation for our carers. I also want to let them know that there are services out there to help them. Caring can be so incredibly demanding. It's important that carers know that they don't have to struggle on alone." Fiona Phillips said

"From personal experi-ence, I know caring can demand a lot of your time and attention, which in some cases can put pressure on other areas in your life, such as financial responsibilities and relationships.

These problems can prove to be exhausting and mentally gruelling and can really take its toll on your health and wellbeing.

"I hope that Carers' Week can again help to achieve change, and make a real difference to the lives of carers in this country.'

Colwinston welcomes latest new attraction .IUST over a year ago, it was decided, as part of the Queen's Jubilee celebrations, that Colwinston would replace its modern telephone box with one of the more traditional Giles Gilbert Scott red kiosk designs.

The task was not as easy as at first hoped, but through community Coun Alun Austin, and with the help of local resident John Lloyd,

British Telecom, The Vale Council, and the previous community council chairman, Peter Graham-Woollard, the new box was installed last Friday in time for Sunday's celebrations.

Made in 1937 for the Coronation of King George VI, with internal fittings from the time of King George V's Silver Jubilee, this box previ-ously stood at Holt in Norfolk, and after refur-

St Mary Hill fair raised £3,000 for Macmillan Nurses

Coity Wallia Conservators' chairman, Clive Davies hands the cheque to Erith Morgan. Alongside is the fair organiser Lyn Wood.

MORE than 400 people in the Bridgend area received help from Macmillan Nurses last year, said secretary of Bridgend Macmillan Cancer Support committee, Erith Morgan.

Ms Morgan received a cheque for £3,000 from Coity Wallia Board of Conservators, organisers of the 2011 St Mary Hill Fair.

Mrs Morgan told members that last year the support committee raised £23,160 and it was all sent to the central fund. A staggering £135,000 was sent back to the Bridgend area for the work it car-

Macmillan Cancer Support aims to improve the lives of all those affected by the disease and this year is launching a campaign to raise awareness of the financial impact on people diagnosed with it. "The challenges of living in a rural area and an ageing population means that cancer poverty is a huge issue for many people," said Mrs Morgan.

"Research has shown that 91 per cent of households suffer loss of income and/or increased costs as a result of cancer diagnosis."

From the £135,000 received in the Bridgend area £42,000 was spent on fuel and in one way or another 403 people were helped.

Mrs Morgan thanked the board and said the donation would be wisely spent in the area on local people who really need the help. There are now three Macmillan nurses and a newly-appointed bene-fits advisor in the area,

MAESTEG MAN HAD COUNTERFEIT GOODS

POLICE discovered counterfeit goods with top designer labels worth £50,000, after stopping a driver in the Rhondda area, Cardiff Crown Court heard.

"Clearly it is a serious case, and you are very lucky not to be going to prison."

Prosecutor Claire Wilkes, acting for Bridgend Trading Standards, said that on October 12, 2010, Cooke was stopped by the police driving a van in Treorchy.

Inside was a large amount of designer clothing, with labels such as Ugg, Lyle and Scott, G-Star and Gio Gio.

Cooke said: "They're all mine." He said he had been buying and selling and all the goods were genuine, having been bought in a market in Cardiff.

There were Ugg boots, said Ms Wilkes, hoodies, various cos-metics and alcohol.

ANOTHER STORMY DAY IN PORTHCAWL LEAVES STREETS BLANKETED IN FOAM!

PORTHCAWL had one of its stormiest days last Thursday (June 7), and the high winds stirred up vast quantities of foam, blanketing beaches and roads with what looked like a June snowfall!

Local photographers Malcolm Nugent and Keith E Morgan captured the images on this page. Malcolm's are marked 'MN' and Keith's are marked 'KEM'.

sold myself to my wife! But these are also some of the reasons why farmers and the Animal or Trojan. When driving down builders, in particular, love their Mitsubishi L200s, I believe.

My family and I put the 2.5-litre diesel dou-ble cab Barbarian through its paces on a bank holiday trek to reminds me of an unforgiving Roman soldier. plainly existing to conquer. In the same way you wouldn't mess with the L200 or its siblings; narrow country lanes other motorists, perhaps slightly intimidated, helpfully pull over. Vehicles are often a reflection of their driver's personalities and I reckon those who own a Barbarian probably like getting their own way.

It blended into the picturesque landscape very well indeed because there are so many in this part of the world.

Put a field in its way and it'll happily climb the most arduous route. It's ideal for those who require a vehicle that will uncomplainingly take what's thrown at it.

When confronted with a sharp muddy incline at the entrance of a field, the Barbarian, in two wheel drive mode, I hasten to add (because I forgot to change to four) made its way without issue up it. High grass and copious amounts of mud were not a problem and baby daughter Harriett remained peaceful in her car seat in the rear thanks to the suspension soaking up the bumps.

This double cab version is ideal for families in a way that the standard version, which accommodates two adults, is not.

Yes, the diesel engine can be a little raucous and the auto box a little indecisive but this adds to its charm. When slowing down, using cruise control, the gears seem to fight against it, preferring to travel faster. Two or four wheel drive modes can be selected manually by the gear stick next to the auto box.

The uncomplicated interior and plastic door inserts are ideal for mucky farmers and ham-fisted builders, as it's easy to wipe away mud and grime.

The comfy leather seats are also robust and hardwearing.

A cavernous covered rear in the test model is ideally suited to transporting livestock, cum-bersome building materials or, as in our case, lots of luggage. The car peted interior is affixed with Velcro for easy removal. I also like the hardwearing chrome bumpers front and rear

Parking in Lyme Regis is a nightmare at the best of times and the L200 really comes into its own in such situations, because you can literally create your ow space by parking on grass verges. It'll drive over mini roundabouts without noticing, too.

Parkers, the car experts, say: "Mitsubishi claims it has provided a more car-like pick-up with an emphasis on design and comfort, but it retains the practicality and ruggedness of the past model. It certainly looks much more striking and it handles and performs more like a car.

The L200 is more comfortable inside, especially the Double Cab versions such as the Animal and Warrior. plus the Elegance comes with full leather and more subtle styling as standard.

There is less body roll, the ride is much firmer and handling is improved, but potholes are felt more keenly.

The tough and reli-able Barbarian appeals to those basic survival instincts.

Approved Independent BMW/ in the Vale of Glamorgan

Customers choose us because we provide a very different experience to what you might consider the garage norm. Our aim is to deliver a competitive dealer alternative, no half-truths just the simple honest facts. Imagine a garage that wants to know your name, a garage that delivers a professional experience, employs staff of the highest calibre, can take the time to discuss the problem you're having with your vehicle, talk to you in a manner you can understand and above all treat you with respect without being condescending. Then you're imagining us!

Main dealers and other garages use our services because we're able to offer in-depth diagnostic services beyond what they can do in-house. Our electronics testing and ecu lab sets us apart from nearly everyone else. From ECUs to Injectors we can do it in-house!

Quite simply we're able to offer you the very best in diagnostics and deliver cutting edge services that most other garages cannot. With the skills and the technical abilities to service and maintain everything from 40 year old Jaguars, cutting edge Porsche's & Mercedes to the latest BMW models we really are the affortable dealer alternative.

The truth is we specialise in vehicle diagnostics and maintenance. Our staff are not jacks of all trades: for example the panel beater only does panel beating; and the valeter does the car washing neither does diagnostics which they would have no knowledge of.

media hype that fanned expectations, Wales went into the first of their three tour tests in Brisbane on Saturday, knowing that if past statistics were any guide, the odds were firmly stacked against them.

After all, Australia had won 21 of the 32 Anter an, Austraia had woll 21 of the 32 encounters since 1908, and Wales just 10, with one match drawn. The prolific men in gold had rattled up a total of 748 points to 463 against – and in their last 12 meetings, Wales had managed to scrape just two wins – both in Cardiff during the Grand Slam years 2005 (24-22) and 2008 (21-18).

The 2012 Grand Slam champions were hoping that would be a happy omen, particularly in light of fellow tourists Scotland's surprise 9-6 victory over the hosts, in foul weather conditions, four days earlier.

The scale of the task, though, lay in the sobering fact that a Welsh team had last tri-umphed in the land of Oz a staggering 43 years ago – on January 21, 1969, when young players who were soon to become known to the rugby world simply as JPR, Gerald, Barry, Gareth, Merv et al, battled to a narrow 19-16

Mind you, it is doubtful if such thoughts weighed too heavily on the young class of 2012, If anything, they would have been buoyed more by the Welsh under-20s' heartening 9-6 win over the all-conquering 'baby All Blacks' the day before, as the seniors prepared to face a wounded Australian side showing no fewer than nine changes from the one that had lost to

Word from the Welsh camp was that they were determined to take advantage of the anger and criticism whipped up in the Australian press at that affront to national sporting pride, and would pile the pressure on their under-fire opponents from the kick-off; knowing that they had a supreme opportunity to at last claim a coveted Tri-Nations scalp, and continue Welsh rugby's renaissance. They also knew that the first quarter of an hour could be key.

Alas, though, their resolve lasted only as long as the opening blast of the referee's whistle instead, it was the fired-up Wallabies who were first into action, roaring out of the starting blocks like men on a mission.

Wales, in contrast, seemed strangely sluggish and off the pace, seemingly taken aback by the urgency and speed of typically potent Australian play that had them backpedalling in desperate defence.

This led to them conceding a penalty in front of their posts, which was slotted over by outside half Berwick Barnes, who then converted a try by bearded back-row man, Scott Higginbotham, to make the score 10-0 in just 17 minutes.

The reliable Leigh Halfpenny reduced the arrears with a calmly-taken penalty, but in truth, it was merely a respite from the overwhelming pressure being exerted on an embattled Welsh side that struggled to come to terms with the pace and physical onslaught.

Upfront, the set-pieces were holding firm (led yet again, by that irreplaceable lynchpin, Adam Jones) but the Welsh forwards were being out-muscled and outwitted in the ruck and tackle area, where man-of-the-match Wallaby skipper, David Pocock, was tireless in his efforts (both legal and non-legal!) to win

Defence coach Shaun Edwards was correct to draw attention to the confusion caused by different interpretations of the laws of the game; for example, at the breakdown, in the southern hemisphere.

As has been noted here in the past, to allow a tackled player to blatantly interfere with play, instead of immediately rolling away, is beyond belief, and hardly conducive to a level playing field, particularly when aggravated by inconsistent refereeing!

That said, no-one can argue that more clinical Australia were the better side, despite a spirited Welsh comeback in a second half, that saw them spurn golden opportunities - after the half had begun as badly as the first, with a scything run to the posts by Wallaby danger man, scrum half Will Genia,

His touchdown was converted by Barnes. and was almost immediately followed by a second penalty from Halfpenny – but Barnes then widened the gap to 20–6 with a snap drop goal. The cool Halfpenny stepped up to narrow it again with a penalty and Wales suddenly came to life, with impressive wing Alex Cuthbert rounding off an excellent move with a try converted by Halfpenny, who promptly added another penalty

Incredibly, the Welsh fight-back had taken them to within a point of the Wallabies' score at 20-19, and with 20 minutes to go and Australia clearly tiring, there was a fleeting hope that famous Welsh fitness levels would

However, this was dashed by an influx of fresh legs from the bench, and a powerful run to the posts by centre Pat McCabe, whose try was converted by Barnes, to make the final score 27-19.

Wales were left licking their wounds and knowing that they will have to substantially raise the pace and precision of their game to save the series, when they line up for the second test in Melbourne on Saturday.

Above all, they cannot afford to be 'caught cold' again and will need to hit the ground running from the outset.

It remains to be seen if Tuesday's 25-15 win against the ACT Brumbies in Canberra will now re-focus Welsh minds after their first test wake-up

The suspicion remains that this Australian side is still there for the taking - provided the lessons have been learned!

President's Day and Captain's Day at golf club

THE veterans at Pyle and Kenfig Golf Cub are surprisingly competitive. Those who have joined the club expecting a casual stroll around the golf course are soon jolted into reality.

President's Day and Captain's Day are held as wo separate events.

David Henry is president and gave a brief history of the section in his after-dinner address. Winner was Mike Considine and highlight of the event was a hole in one by former club captain Glyn Lloyd (his first in more than forty years of golf!).

Andrew Calder's (captain of the section), day as won by the big hitting Phil Lathey.

Club captain, Barrie Edwards, a vet's member, played in both competitions.

In each case, an excellent dinner was provided by Tracey and her staff.

The section continues to go from strength to strength with twice-weekly competitions, including home and away matches against other clubs, and specially organized golf trips.

Anyone aged 58 years or over is assured of a warm welcome in the section. Contact secretary

Bulls survive scare to see off Dyffryn Devils

THE Bridgend Blue Bulls received a mighty scare at Penybanc RFC before finally beating the Dyffryn Devils 44-26.

Dan Smith claimed a nt-trick, and teenage full-back Huw Rosser scored 26 points.

The reigning champi-ons were without a number of key players and were disjointed at the start, and the Devils took full advantage, with Owen Williams claiming an opening try in the second minute: Ceri Rees converted.

But Bridgend were back on level terms straight away when Dan

Smith raced over for his first and Rosser converted.

Rosser then scored himself after gathering the ball from a Devils' kick and racing 90 metres, weaving past a number of would-be tacklers. He converted himself for a 12-6 lead.

The Devils hit back via Ceri Rees, but then Lee Smith scored the Bulls' third, although it came at a cost with the centre injuring his leg while scoring. Rosser again added the extra vo.

The Bulls should have claimed a fourth moments later after a great break from Tylon Mafi, but he was brought down just short and then penalised for illegally playing the ball. The Devils broke away and Steffan Jones scored to cut the deficit to just four points at half-time.

Two tries for Dan Smith in the opening five minutes of the second half gave the sec-ond row his hat-trick, with Rosser adding both kicks, then great play from Nathan Hawkins and Lee Harben-Jones ended in a try for Mikey Rowe.

Good play from Williams then saw

Dafydd Pritchard score the Devils' fourth of the game, with Rees again

adding the extras. Rosser claimed his second for Bridgend after a Josh Miles run, and then converted from the touchline.

The Devils never gave up and were rewarded with a fifth score when Gareth Rees seized on a mistake by Chris McGrath, but the final say went to Bulls' forward Ken Dowding, who capped off a good performance with the final touchdown.
